

Lisboa

Here stands the Amoreiras Shopping Complex. Stores on the first two levels. Offices and apartments on the top levels.

On our city tour we stopped at the monument of the Discoverers which honors the numerous Portuguese explorers.

The Tower of Belem - another landmark on our tour.

Wayne stands on the grounds of the municipal square in downtown Lisbon. In the background you can see the double-decker yellow bus on which we took our city tours.

Ahhhh - enjoying the sites in the Alfama district of Lisboa.

Lisboa

Cheryl and her first purchase - goodies from the Hard Rock Café Lisboa. I wonder who this gift is for?

Portugal is known for its “azulejos” - blue ceramic tiles. These and other ceramic tiles cover the surface of many of Lisboa’s buildings.

A view from the top of Parque Eduardo VII (Edward the 7th Park) looking down to the sea.

Inside Amoreiras Shopping Center.

We stop during our walk in town to enjoy the views.

And more gorgeous vistas.
